THE HEART OF SOUTH DIVISION

"In every institution there are those who are its heart and its driving force. They are the ones who make its abiding traditions. They are the ones whom we cherish with a peculiar regard. It is they who in honor, love, and true devotion constitute the Heart of South Division."

Harry Evan Coblentz
Principal 1909 - 1936
South Division High School

Dear Hilda, the girl with a nice warm smile... hard to forget you.
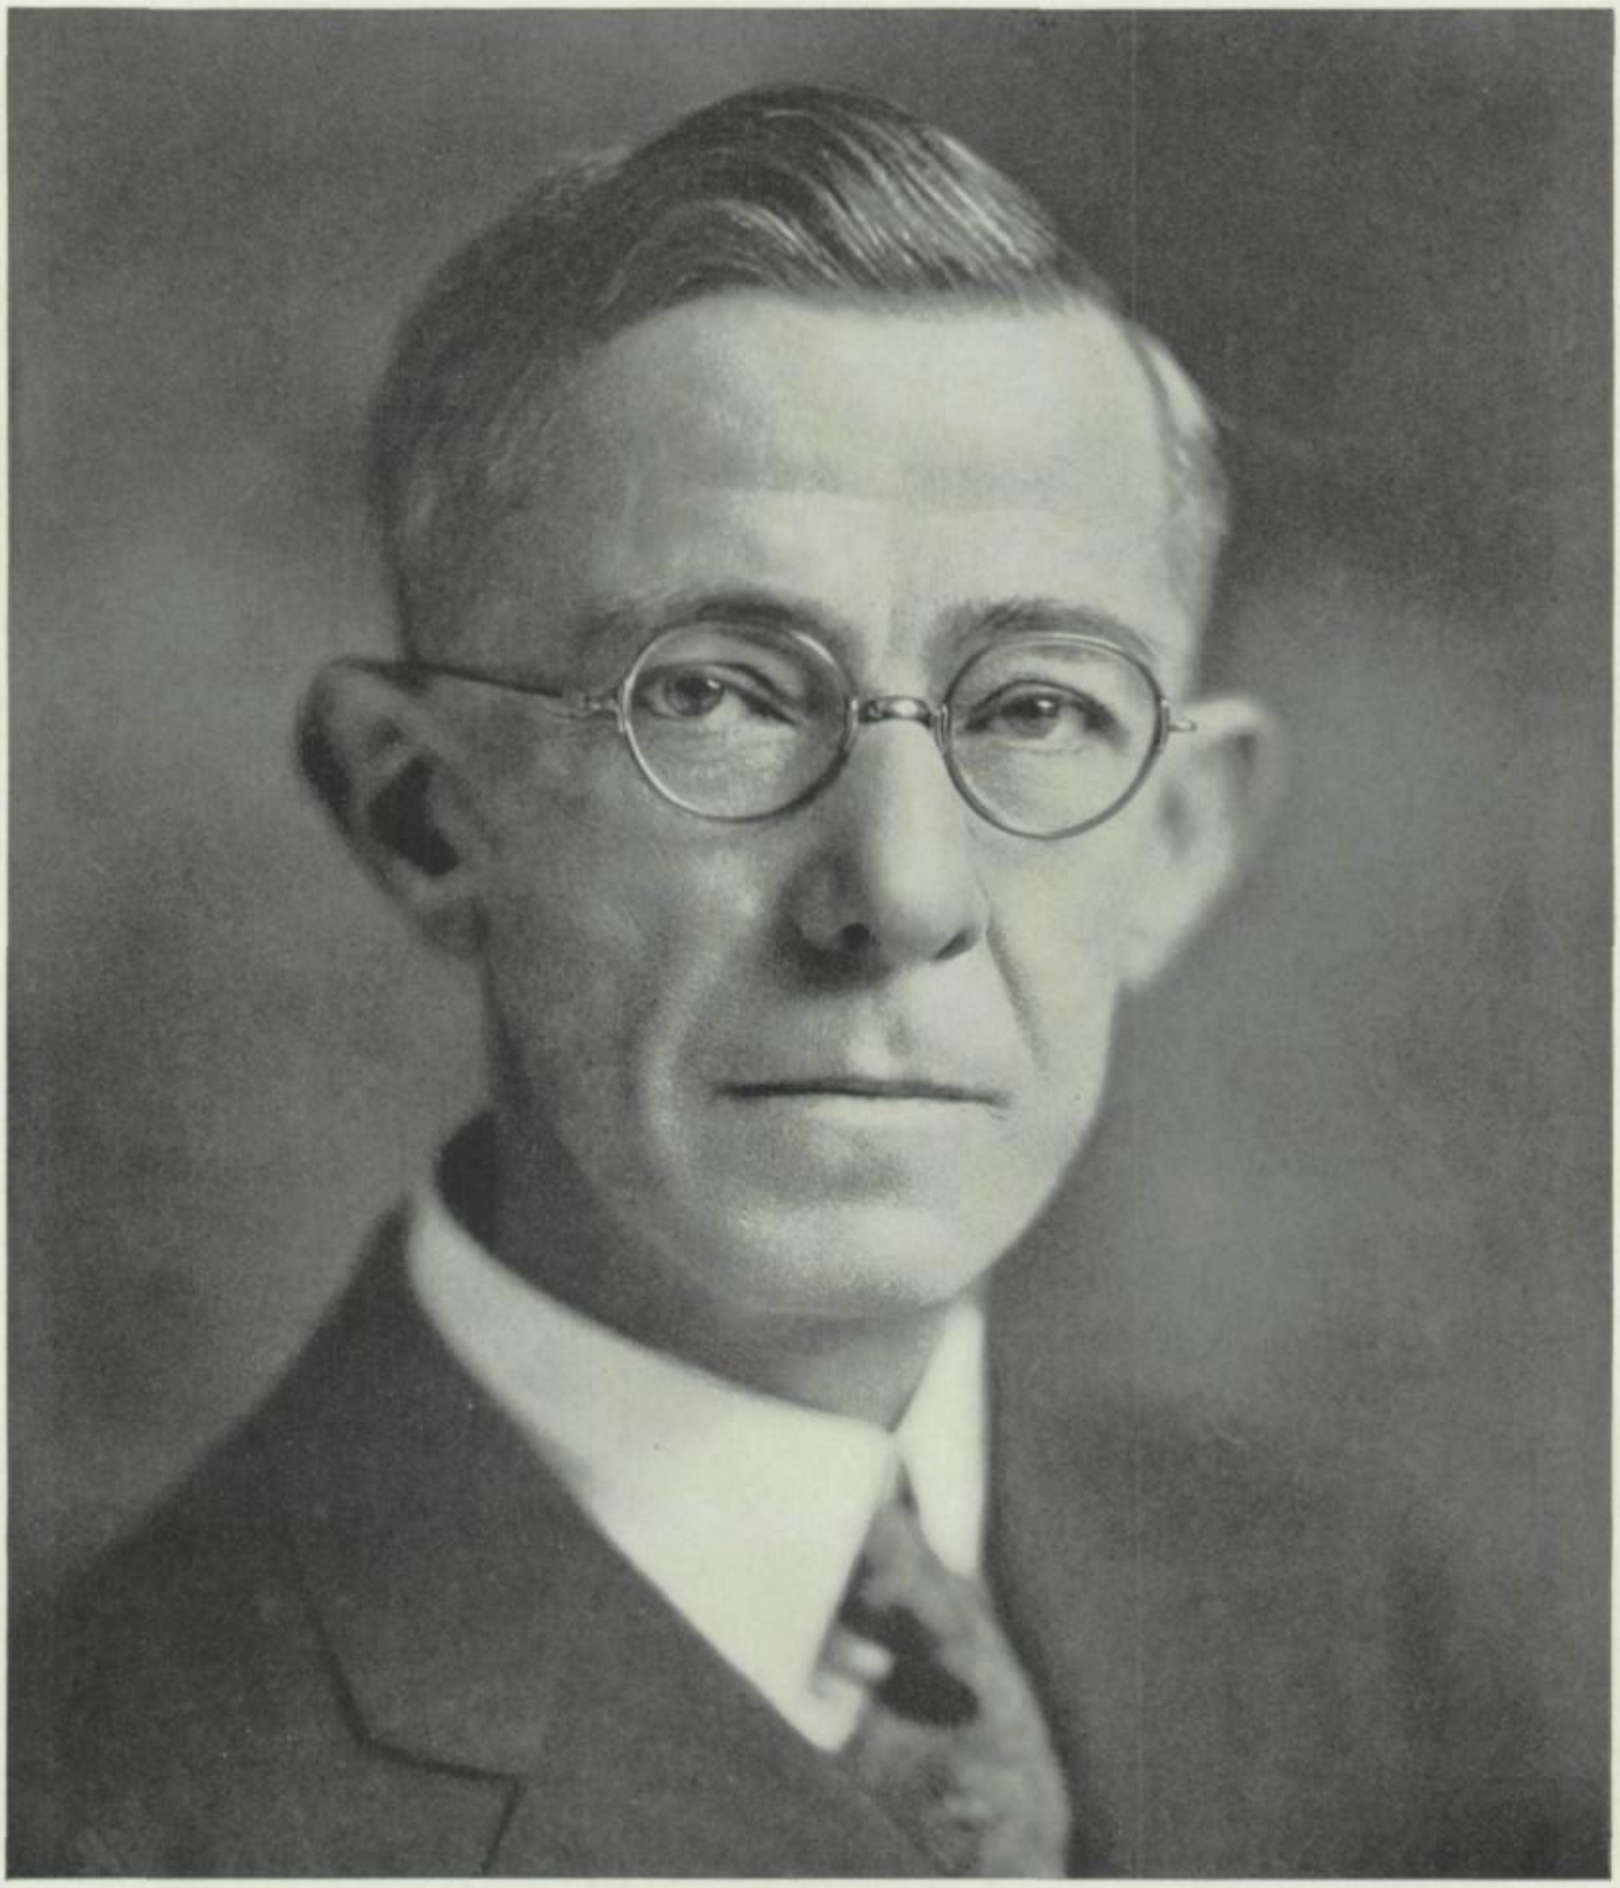
Celia Garloff.



MR. HARRY EVAN COBLENTZ

Hilda,
Thanks for being so
dared sweet.
LaVerne Ewer

TO HARRY EVAN COBLENTZ

We are grateful for the beautiful new addition that houses our library, gymnasium, and band room.

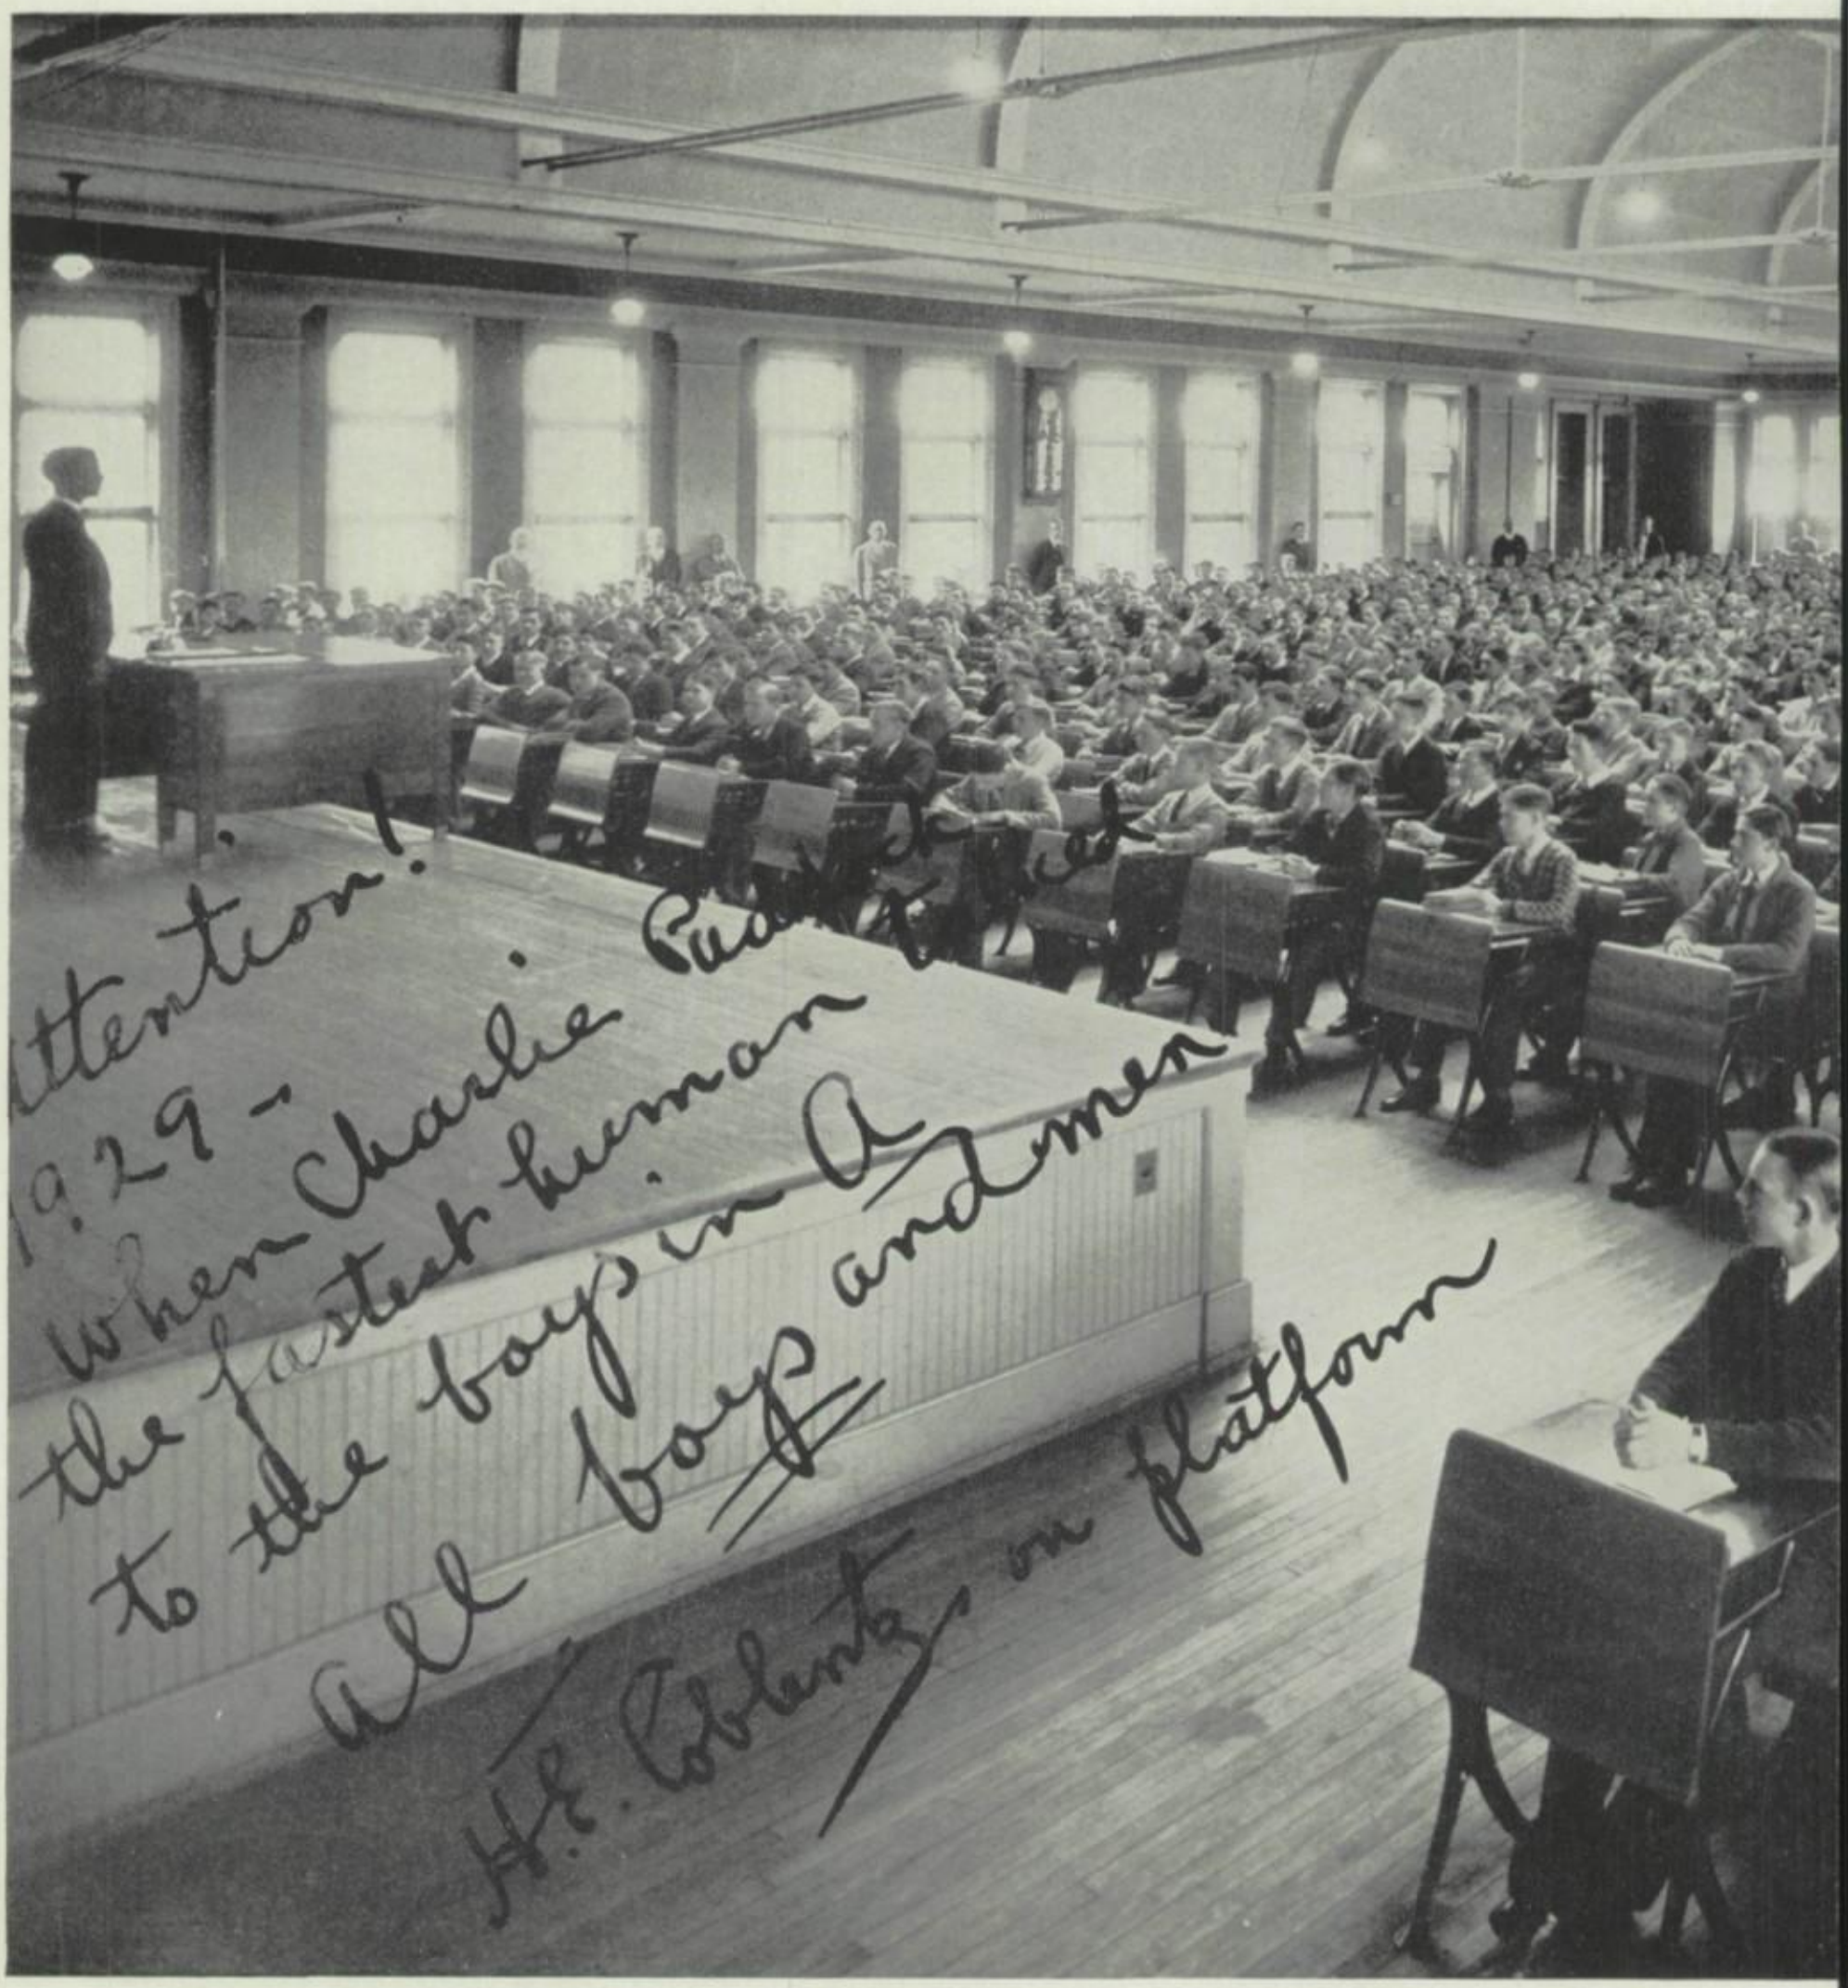
We appreciate the numerous exquisite paintings that brighten our corridors and classrooms.

We enjoy South stadium, the site of our many unforgettable grid battles.

We are proud of that spirity of unity, "of doing everything together," that forever binds our hearts to our Alma Mater.

We realize that all of these living memorials could not have been ours without your devotion and labor.

the class of 1947 gratefully dedicates
the thirty-fourth edition of the CARDINAL.



Do you recognize it? It's our own Coblentz hall back in 1929. Madam A will well remember that day in her illustrious career when Charlie Paddock, Olympic track winner, spoke to the boys of South Division. Enhancing this photo's historic interest is a comment by Mr. Coblentz in his own handwriting seen at the left. The original picture is in Mr. Book's archives.

What a difference twenty years can make! In this view of Coblentz hall during the lunch hour, we see a modern matron who has kept up with the times. Her most recent face-lifting occurred last summer when an elevated floor and new seating arrangement were installed. Soon an orgatron will be set up to provide music for her many lodgers. Now and in the years to come, Coblentz hall will remain the heart and soul of South Division.

ALUMNI, FRIENDS

Standing: Adam Larson, Harriet Themmes, Thaddeus Wasielewksi, Lorraine Schoemann, Henry Speerbrecher, Louis Re Wolf, Earl Butter, Benjamin Bockelman, Seated: Janet Gruber Thode, Helen Coblentz Scott, Elsa Dudenhofer, Erna F Bernfeld, Helen Buboltz Burnish

All South Division hearts swelled with pride as Mr. Crout proclaimed, "By virtue of my position, I hereby state that this hall henceforth be known as Coblentz hall, and I so dedicate it." Thus on Cobie day, September 24, the unmeaningful name, assembly A, became Coblentz hall. Cobie and South Division, one and inseparable, were at that moment linked together forever. It was an occasion that will never be forgotten by the graduates, students, and friends who were present.

Since its constitution was adopted in 1921, the Alumni association has done much for South. The Alumni book, presented each year to the junior boy excelling in English, has been an incentive for distinction in scholarship. This year the association was also responsible for the tremendous turnout at the South Division GI Victory ball. On that night servicemen, together with former students, renewed acquaintances after a long separation during the war years.

Without a doubt the most outstanding service of this organization was to make possible the unforgettable fiftieth anniversary banquet held at the Milwaukee auditorium, December 10, 1943. Congratulations to these graduates of other years. As Mr. Coblentz said, "They are the heart and spirit of our fine Alumni association."

Dr. Theisen, Mrs. Scott, Supt. Goodrich, Mr. Coblentz, Mrs. Coblentz, Mr. Potter, Mr. Crout

RAY D. CROUT

More than just a friend to all, Mr. Ray D. Crout has become an integral part of each and every South Divisionite. His generous smile and fatherly advice daily influence all his youngsters. He inspires high scholarship and noble character traits. Always on hand to encourage a football player or praise a school production, he has won the admiration of teachers and students alike. Because of his sincere interest in extracurricular activities and competitive sports, our principal exemplifies the Shoulder-to-Shoulder spirit which South so proudly boasts. In heart they are one.

VICE-PRINCIPAL

JAMES A. BOOK

Hand in hand with the fine traditions of South, Mr. James A. Book, vice-principal, works diligently for the betterment of our school. His competence as director of school finances has maintained our balances on an even keel. When circumstances required, he has stepped into the role of acting principal with the same quiet efficiency. This was the case between the years 1935 and 1937 and again during recent shorter periods. Mr. Book's friendly attitude and ceaseless concern for his job are indeed South's fortune.

Seniors

"Fair lies the land behind you. Fair lies the prospect of your Promised Land. As you turn toward that land, you should remember your school has taught you with Shakespeare's word that 'Tis the mind that makes the body rich,' and that material riches unrightly used may be the destroyer of both mind and body. And as you turn to the high road, may you be well-fortified, well-bestowed, and well-minded."

Class Commission

JANUARY

"Is everyone in favor of donating money toward a trophy case?" asked Ileane Johnson, chairman of the January class commission, at one of its meetings. Choosing a new ring style, deciding upon the type of cap and gown, promoting the senior dance, and making banquet arrangements were some of the duties of this executive lady and her four committee members. Together they kept the affairs of the graduates moving smoothly.

Representative Students

JANUARY

Witty, attractive, intelligent — these are the qualities in Ileane Johnson that influenced the February graduates to elect her their representative girl. Her friendliness and sparkling personality will cheer many patients when Ileane becomes a nurse. Football games, novels, and midnight snacks are her specialties.

"I enjoy motor racing, a week end at the lakes, or just listening to Vaughn Monroe," claimed Glenn Pfefferkorn, representative boy. This talkative lad is as charming as he is intelligent. Glenn is now studying mechanical engineering at the U. S. Coast Guard academy.

National Honor Society

JANUARY

"We must see that our spark plugs of ambition, our battery of enthusiastic energy, and our motor of spiritual, physical, and emotional stability are all tuned to their maximum proficiency," stated Miss Estelle Stone, senior counselor. At the honor day program, January 9, she challenged the student body to cultivate these traits. "We must go to work even if it means sacrifice and much effort," urged Miss Stone.

Scholastic Honors

JANUARY

"Wisdom, though richer than Peruvian mines,
And sweeter than the sweet ambrosial hive,
What is she, but the means of happiness?"
Edward Young

Celine Myszewski and Glorianne Kusmierczyk were selected first and second honor students of the January 1947 class with averages of 92.70 and 92.08 respectively.

Formerly a Student council representative and a bond booster, Celine was a member of Klub Polski when she was graduated.

Glorianne spent most of her spare time working for The Cardinal weekly. Former monitor of row 6 and both office and infirmary monitor, Glorianne will attend college.

Class Commission

JUNE

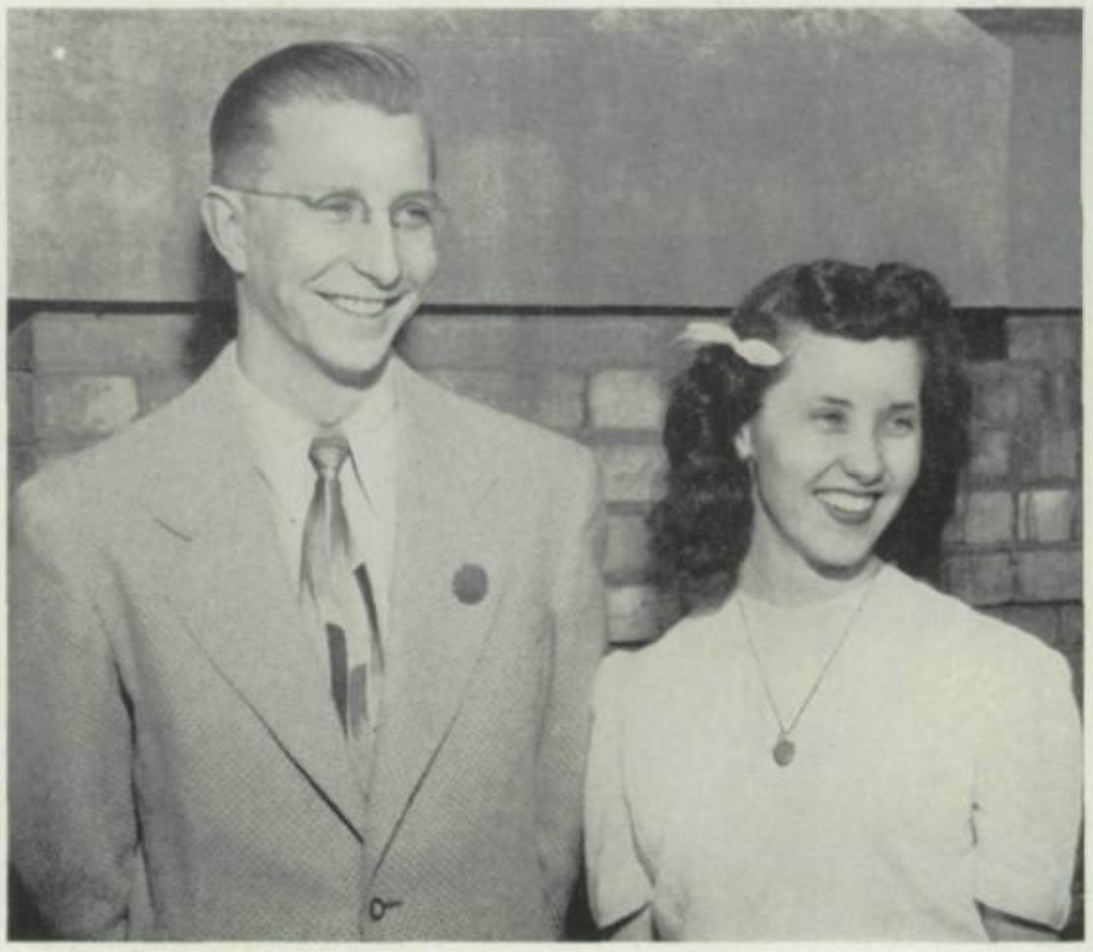
Taking time out for relaxation after a lively discussion on caps and gowns, the June Class commission looks pleased with their decision. For the first time in the history of South they have chosen white caps and gowns for the girls and a cordovan blue for the boys. As a class gift they will increase the fund already started for a trophy case, which is to be installed in the cafeteria lobby at some future date.

Representative Students

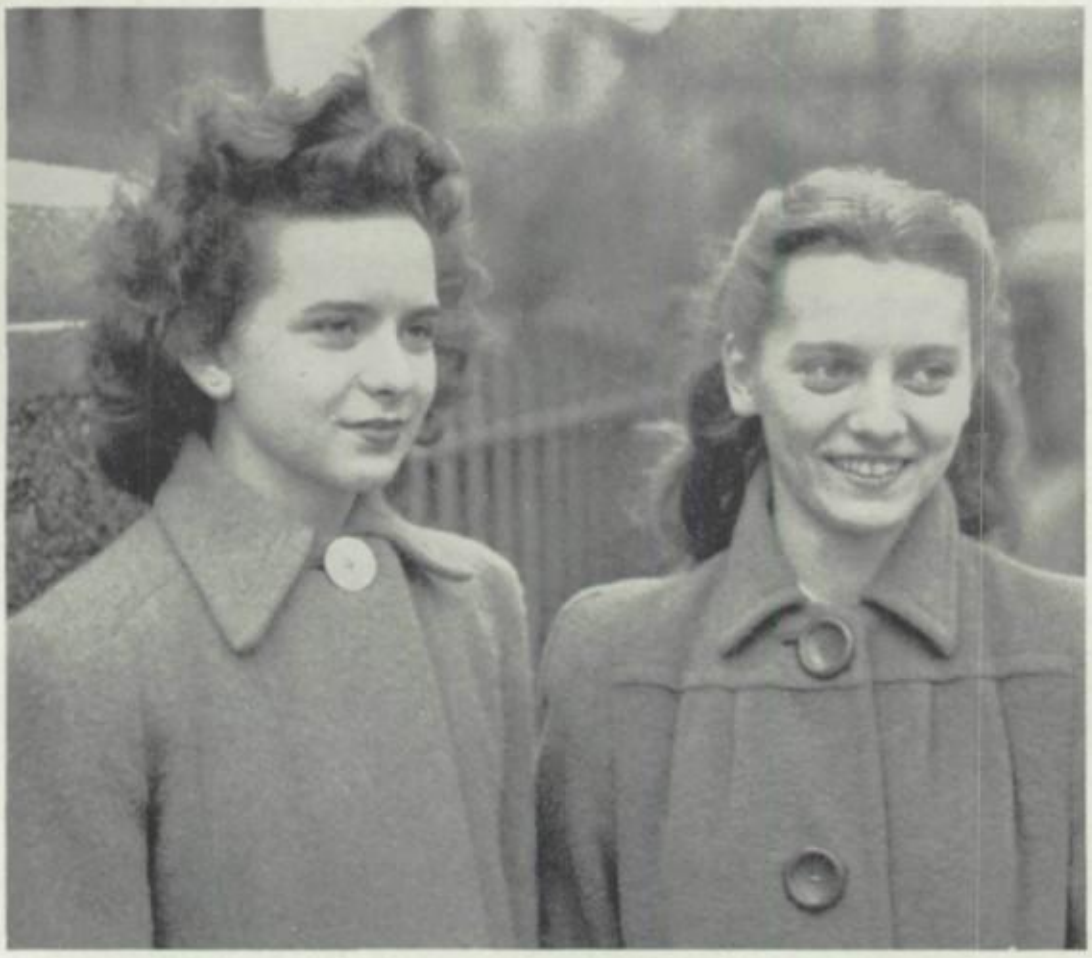
JUNE

Choice of faculty and seniors, congenial Joyce Johnson won the coveted honor of representative girl of the June 1947 class. Upon graduation from the science course, this chairman of the class commission plans to enter the nursing profession.

Because of outstanding leadership in the classroom as well as in athletics, Paul Strothenke was elected representative boy. After completing his high school education, Paul would like to be a chemist or a physicist. Serving as monitor of row 8 and as editor of the Annual, this mathematics enthusiast always found time to be friendly.



Paul Strothenke, Joyce Johnson



Sally Wielebski, Olga Bielinska

Scholastic Honors

JUNE

Maintaining averages of 94.92 and 94.48 respectively, Olga Bielinska and Sally Wielebski received top scholastic honors in the June 1947 class.

Olga played the lead in the class play, Jane Eyre. After graduating from the English course, this future Oscar winner hopes to continue her career on the stage.

"It's got to be this or that," stated Sally, who is debating about whether to be an elementary teacher or a fashion designer. Sally aided the yearbook as associate editor.

National Honor Society

JUNE

"The National Honor society is for high school graduates, the same as Phi Beta Kappa and other honorary fraternities are for college graduates. It affords worthy recognition to those scholars who have generously contributed their time and efforts to promote various school activities." With these words Miss Estelle Stone congratulated the 36 new members on Scholastic Honor day, May 26.

Prom committee pauses to refuel

King Alex MacGillis, Queen Ruth Rankin

Alert cupids scattered romance-tipped arrows among young dancers at the South Division prom, February 8. King Alex MacGillis reigned with his chosen queen, Ruth Rankin.

In vivid contrast to the keenly white and unfriendly weather that night, high-spirited couples mingled in flirtatious St. Valentine's spirit. Starry-eyed maids in joyous, pastel formals reveled under dim lights and dark blue streamers. Their entranced escorts had eyes only for them. Warm, red paper hearts and filmy angel hair decorated the gymnasium and accentuated the sparkle that made the 1947 prom distinctive.

Joe Caravella and his twelve musicians furnished lively tangos and two-steps as well as airy waltzes. Around ten o'clock the orchestra played a college medley inviting belles and beaux to form the grand march. Six long-gloved girls and their debonair partners attended the royal couple as the court of honor. They were Carol Brain and Karl Stoedefalke, Janet Burmeister and Don Zipter, Joyce Johnson and Jerry Engel, Esther Gostomski and John Katerinos, Jane Woythal and Bob Planovsek, and Audrey Schunck and Gene Ureda.

Seated on a throne of hearts, Ruth was presented a pure white wreath of carnations, hyacinths, and an orchid. A pompous crown of red cellophane and delicate lace doilies adorned the king's head. The martial music melted into an intriguing love song, and once again the colorful formals began to swirl.

Usually silent and somber on Saturday nights, the halls became alive with gay couples promenading between notes. Fleeting tete-a-tetes were not uncommon as weary dancers lined the walls to converse over refreshing cups of punch.

The prom committee, responsible for the details and success of the affair, consisted of Alex MacGillis, general chairman; Don Knutson and Harvey Bartels, publicity; Ruth Rankin and Pat Hadden, dance programs; Joan Yaucher and Elmer Johnson, decorations; Ray Pokrop and James Dodge, tickets; Lillian Staicoff, checking and chaperones; and Nancy Szeremeta, refreshments.

Activities

"One may speak of one's hobbies in terms of the intellect, but one's hobbies are based largely on spontaneous, contagious enthusiasms. One should love the beautiful and should surround oneself with beautiful objects in life as far as possible. Other hobbies have their place, but who can successfully dispute the hobby of living with beautiful things he has collected himself or can find them elsewhere if he seeks diligently for them?"

JOAN YAUCHER
Joan Yaucher collaborated with Harvey Bartels on the cover design and was a top member of the staff.

PATRICIA CURTIN
Speedy Patricia Curtin just sailed through the year running errands, scaling pictures, and helping check returned proofs.

EDITH FUHRMAN
Edith Fuhrman, senior photographic editor and staff member for two years, worked diligently to complete her assignment.

BETTY McQUIRE
Tiny but mighty, that's Betty McQuire. Scaling pictures and helping wherever she could, Betty was always on the job.

CHARLOTTE BENRUD
Charlotte Benrud, co-editor, served three years. She made the dummy, scheduled pictures, and assisted the photographer.

PATRICIA HADDEN
Patricia Hadden, co-editor and member for two years, made the dummy, checked pictures, and gave out assignments.

EUGENE BOYD, a junior, has served one year on the staff. He scaled pictures and made layouts.

BEN PRIMUS, junior, was kept busy going to the engraver, scaling pictures, and making the insignia.

BEVERLY McMANUS a January graduate, scaled pictures, made layouts, and kept the cupboard tidy and neat.

MARCELLA JASZEWSKI, junior, joined the staff in January and will continue next year.

MR. PARIS

Standing: Joan Yaucher, Patricia Curtin, Curtis Stedman, Patricia Hadden, Seated: Doreen Garsky, Edith Fuhrman, Charlotte Benrud

Standing: Pat Schroeder, Joyce Johnson, Seated: Eileen Engelke, Pauline Albright, Alice Wolfe

Credit is due Patricia Schroeder for the faculty write-ups. Besides working with Patricia on this assignment, Joyce Johnson was answerable for the report on the counselors. The January and June senior questionnaires comprised part of Eileen Engelke's work on the staff. Alice Wolfe and Pauline Albright gave their time and effort to type and retype material in order that the dummy would be ready for the printer by D-day.

CARDINAL ANNUAL

MISS BARRY

To produce a memory book that everyone will cherish, the 1947 Annual editors combined their skills and talents. Keeping the scoreboard for all sports was one of the responsibilities of Karl Stoedefalke, sports editor, who also assigned athletic write-ups. Associate Editor Sally Wielebski arranged the progress chart and aided the editor in making the staff dummy. Audrey Schunck, copy editor, proofread all copy. Consulting with the printer, art editors, and advisers, Editor-in-chief Paul Strothenke kept a masculine eye on every section of the book. All articles were assigned and deadlines set by Richard Lewis, literary editor.

According to custom, the January '47 graduates had representatives on the yearbook staff. Their task was to write up class activities, a special assignment being the individual senior sketches.

From September to February, Helen Iracki served as the Annual secretary. It was her job to type letters, a style sheet, and other work necessary in making up the format of the book. Her big accomplishment was a roster of names of all students now enrolled at school.

LITERARY STAFF

MISS STARR

Melvin Rindfleisch devoted his time to compiling the gold star roll and writing up scholastic honors. Many of the club assignments were taken care of by Arleen Dettlaff and Arleen Wilke. With Eileen Bakshta reporting on the Weekly staff, Geraldine Jarantowski covered the office staff and monitors. Collecting material and writing the Coblentz hall dedication story, as well as several other assignments, kept Claudine James on her toes. Shirley Groth was chiefly concerned with write-ups for Freshman-Sophomore Parent day and freshman honors. Contributions from Lester Woodcock and Erwin Schubert were for the sport section exclusively.

EDITORIAL STAFF

CARDINAL

"The Cardinal weekly prepares its staff members for their future lives," declared Miss Frances Terry, Weekly adviser. Whether he is copyreading manuscripts, proofreading galleys, or writing a headline, a staff member learns how to get along with other people. At the time the paper is being made up, writers and editors come in contact with various sorts of people, the persons they interview, who may be very erudite, or the printer, who may speak with an accent. They must learn to talk in an understanding, businesslike, and yet friendly manner. Staff members learn to become responsible and reliable. When they receive their assignments, they must hand the article in to meet a deadline. The editor-in-chief and all the other editors must be relied upon to have their make-up pages ready for the printer. These budding young journalists learn to budget their time well. They remember that "the stream of time glides smoothly by and is past before we know." Therefore they learn to use time to their advantage now and will continue to do so in the future.

To all outward appearances it seems an impossibility that anything of value can be accomplished in the pandemonium that is room 227 when the proofreaders work. This group is divided into two sections, copyholders and proofreaders; the former read the copy aloud to the latter who follow along on the galley proof, correcting spelling and punctuation. After a while the underdog proofreaders are rewarded for good attendance by being promoted to copy-readers. Equally essential to the publication of The Cardinal weekly are the typists. Divided into two shifts, daytime and after-school workers, they type copy as well as headlines.

In contrast to the adventurous job of reporter is the work of the business staff members who methodically count and distribute all issues of The Cardinal weekly. Tearing wrappers off new Annuals is their biggest moment. During the eighth hour, the mailing crew springs into action wielding paste brushes and labels. Through their endeavors, business establishments running ads in the paper receive their copies. Members of the senior shorthand class type the mailing lists. Sending out bills and keeping a list of accounts receivable are the responsibilities of the bookkeeper. Mr. Floyd Hanneman, business adviser, supervises activities of this staff.

Rugged individualist Warry Reardon shows his complete disdain for the lighter side of life by refusing to join in the general round of gaiety. The fluorescent light of his young life, Lily, differs with him, at least in the presence of Nana and her choice satirical comments. Though Lily is Nan's favorite grandniece, impish Penelope holds the honored position of favorite granddaughter. This setting, beyond doubt, portrays the most dangerous elements of the Reardon family.

"Hmph," says Hannah, "don't forget me. I may be old, but I'm still kicking," in retort to Diana's remark, "We're all together, the three of us." A whole year has passed since Jane's flight from Thornfield hall, and in this modest home on the moors she has once more won a place in the hearts of others. Soon St. John will propose to her, not because he loves her, but, like a typical Scotchman, he feels she can be of use to him in his work.

Little does Jane know that in this moment of bliss tragic news is about to tear asunder all the things she holds dear. While these classical lovers are gazing rapturously at each other, Mrs. Fairfax, Rochester's faithful and efficient housekeeper, tugs mightily at Adele Varens so that the imp of Thornfield hall will leave and not disturb the scrupulously clean room. Meanwhile Leah takes a last look at her handiwork with a maid's true sense of pride in work well done.

JUNE PLAY

Soon after Jane Eyre comes to Thornfield hall, er inherent goodness causes cynical Edward ochester to fall in love. Later as the marriage is out to be solemnized, Briggs denounces Roches- r as a bigamist and proves that he has a wife, shrieking maniac. Disillusioned, Jane flees to e home of a distant cousin, St. John Rivers. A ear later as she is about to accept St. John's roposal, she hears Rochester's voice echoing cross the moors. Rushing to Thornfield hall, Jane nds him blind as a result of the fire in which his sane wife perished. The curtain falls with Jane nd Rochester in each other's arms.

It's a close race this year to see who will reach the top rung of the Chess club miniature ladder. The contrivance, about three feet long and three inches wide, was devised by Gerald Behmke, a 1940 graduate, to encourage chess players to perfect their skills. In the order of their prowess, names of club members appear on the rungs. Throughout the second semester, Alice Johnson and Roland Delamater have been battling for perches at the top.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

MISS RAMAKER

Arranging book displays is one of the projects of the Library Science club. It meets every Thursday during the fifth hour with Shirley Bain presiding and Gloria Kingsley acting as secretary and treasurer. The twenty-two cadets also make attractive bulletin board posters on authors and a weekly news map on current events. They are always eager to assist the librarian by performing routine clerical tasks.

Tours and theater parties were on the agenda this year, but a field trip to WTMJ Radio city was the main social event.

BOYS' CLUB

MR. SASKOWSKI

Having fun in the rumpus room is one reason why members of Cardinal Boys' club meet every other week at the Grant Street Social center. There the boys also engage in ping-pong, pool, and dancing.

To satisfy an assortment of interests, members made a tour of Radio city and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, attended movies, parties, and participated in basketball contests.

Sport activities included entering a team in the center basketball league.

JANUARY

Do you have any good ideas as to how our school life can become more interesting and efficient? Questions of this type are brought to the attention of all South Divisionites through the Student council, chief medium of self-government. Following a basic, democratic principle, each homeroom and row in Coblentz hall, as well as every school organization, sends a delegate to the weekly Wednesday morning meetings in room 314.

Formed the first and seventh hours in assembly B, honor study halls are one of the projects started under the council's supervision this year. "Still in the experimental stage, their success will be deter-

Another project the organization has put into action is the noon dances held in the boys' gym. Miss Mary Jane Ryan, supervisor, is confident of the continued success of this mid-day form of relaxation. Although the 1946 football season proved unsuccessful, Tackle Gene Ureda and Back Dan Rosinski were given berths on the All-City teams. With the opening of practice September 1, the Cardinals were faced with the toughest problems in South Division football history, for there were many inexperienced boys and a new coaching staff. New Head Coach George Tietjen and Assistant Coach Gordie Olsen, both former servicemen, tackled the job of building a smooth co-ordinated eleven out of green material. Opening against the Pulaski Ramblers, South lost a hard-fought battle 12-6. Boys' Tech beat the Redmen 13-7 the following week. Before a stadium packed with cheering South Divisionites, the Redmen then lost to Custer 14-7. Drizzling sky and slippery turf helped to smother hopes of South gridders when they bowed before a superior Rufus King coterie. Previous tough breaks spurred the Cards on to give their best to the last three closely-fought battles, only to be defeated by Lincoln 20-14, West 6-0, and Bay View 14-0.

Under the capable leadership of Mentor Ray Kiehl, the Frosh-Soph football squad annexed seven wins and one defeat. Sportsmanship and fundamentals of footfall learned this season will fit these gridders to be the backbone of future Varsity squads.

BASKETBALL

With a record of five victories and five losses, Coach Walter Rasinske capably led his basketball squad, including five returning veterans, through a ten-game schedule. Opening against Bay View, the Cards rang up a 35-34 victory. Tech, the second victim, lost a hard-fought battle, 43-36. The following week South was shellacked by Lincoln, 51-24, and the Cardinal hoopmen again lost a one-sided battle to the Pulaski Ramblers to the tune of 50-37. Retaliating, the scarlet-clad five thoroughly beat the Juneau quintet 40-30.

Opening the second half of the season, the Cardinals walloped Bay View 54-34. The Redmen then dropped three games in a row, to Tech, 41-38; to Lincoln, 50-47; and to Pulaski, 51-35. The grand finale of the season found the South cagers crushing Juneau 59-37.

COACH KIEHL

Although the Frosh-Soph basketball season ended with eight losses and only two wins, the team improved throughout the season. Winning only from Bay View and Juneau, the Cards lost hard-fought battles against Tech, Pulaski, and Lincoln. Under Coach Kiehl's supervision, the Redmen practiced in the boys' gym after school. Some of the Cardinal contests were held before the Varsity games.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Spotlighting the 1946 season for the hill-and-dalers was Card Al MacGillis, who took first in the sectional, third in the city, and thirteenth in the state. Confronted with but one returning letterman, Coach Joe Heineman built a fairly aggressive team of horizon-chasers. Starting off with a bang, South harriers swamped Pulaski 21-41 and outran King 25-32. They were set back by Washington 26-29. In the first triangular meet of the season, the Redmen emerged in second place, outrun only by Bay View. In their last three meets, the south sectional, city, and state, the South men ranked second, fourth, and thirteenth respectively.

COACH NOWAK

WRESTLING

State championship climaxed the Cardinal groaners' successful season of six wins and no defeats. Under the capable hands of Coach Joe Nowak, the Cards opened with a crushing 34-3 victory over Racine. In the second meet South trampled West Milwaukee $25\frac{1}{2}$-$7\frac{1}{2}$ and walloped Pulaski 26-6 in the third meet. Opening the second half of the season, Racine again fell victim to the Redmen to the tune of 32-3. Later the locals showed their supremacy by overwhelming West Milwaukee, 23-8. Ending the season with a close battle, the Cards nosed out Pulaski, 18-16. Nelson, Shilling, Ureda, and Rembalski emerged as state champs.

TRACK, 1946

Winding up the 1946 season, trackmen participated in the city and state meets. In the city meet Card Half-miler Windy Gross set the pace by taking first. Windy was followed by 440-men Paul Strothenke and Art Baermann, who took second and third respectively. Other points for South were grappled by Walter Jakubowski, high-jumper, Curtis Clever, miler, and Wesley Sommer, pole-vaulter.

Qualifiers for the state meet are decided by the state sectional try-outs, the first three in each event being chosen. Art Baermann, Windy Gross, Dale Hoffman, Dick Kurylo, Joe Horonitz, Walter Jakubowski, John Strong, Paul Strothenke, Wesley Sommer, and Clifford Johnson represented South.

Only two boys emerged victorious in this meet of champions. Winfred Gross snared a fourth in the half mile, and Paul Strothenke received fifth place in the quarter mile.

TRACK, 1947

With the 1947 track season just under way, Card cindermen already have two victories tucked under their belts, one a dual against West, and the other, the south section quadrangular meet. By winning this four-fold feat, the Redmen were christened south side champs.

In this first major meet the Shoulder-to-Shoulder spirit was a dominating factor in their success. It was not just a few working to win but the entire team pulling together that won this annual quadrangular meet. Stellar performers and nucleus of this year's powerhouse are:

Smashing the 180-yard medley relay mark in the little city meet, a top-notch trio consisting of Co-captain Jerome Jachthuber, Alex MacGillis, and Karl Stoedefalke set South Division's first swimming record, second in the city and fifth in the state meets. Other outstanding Card ducklings were free-stylers, Co-captain Tom Gelhar, who was always pulling through in a pinch; Don Zipter, a dependable sprint-man; and Breaststroker Don Kollatz, who received his third major letter. Jack Olsen, a sophomore, climaxed an outstanding season by snaring second in the city meet 200-yard freestyle event.

BASEBALL

Taking the lead among Milwaukee high schools, South made baseball a major sport in 1946. Tutored by former Head Coach Arthur Krueger, the Cards took unofficial city title. In new gray and cardinal uniforms, the Redmen lost only three out of nine games. Opening with two overwhelming triumphs, the local nine mauled Messmer 12-2 and West 21-3. Two heartbreaking losses, one against St. John's Military academy, 5-2, and the other against West, 1-0, followed. South showed its spirit by winning the next four games: against Lutheran, 10-2; Lincoln, 7-4 and 14-21; and Messmer, 11-0. They lost their last contest to St. Francis, 6-5.

Through a willingness to learn, to form good character traits, and to give service, freshman honor students inspire their classmates to become a finer type of South Division graduate.

This year twenty names have been added to the roll of honor which was started in 1940. At the end of their first semester those students whose averages are over ninety receive pins inscribed with the words Freshman Honor. At the October 11 program, seventeen with averages of eighty-five to ninety received honorable mention. Sixty-three more in the upper quarter were awarded special recognition, February 27 when for the first time they marched across the stage in Coblentz hall to get their class standings.

Another first in life advisement at South Division is Freshman-Sophomore Parents' day, which made its debut last October. This chance for parents and teachers to meet during the school day is thought to be the first of its kind at South.

Miss Jane Whitney, welfare officer, spoke on Home and School Relationships, at the first gathering, and at a later parent-teacher tea, Mrs. Stewart Scrimshaw of the Wauwatosa Women's club discussed the Need of Good Citizenship. Students of the music department provided entertainment at both programs. Refreshments in the cafeteria offered an added opportunity for homeroom teachers and parents to talk over problems involving their Bettys and Bobs.

Mrs. Luzia Greenwalt and Miss Mildred Martin, freshman and sophomore advisers, hope these gatherings will become a tradition at South.

"Good afternoon, Mom and Dad"

Counselors

Life advisement programs, planned for the instruction and entertainment of the upper classmen, are arranged by Miss Estelle Stone and Mr. Conrad Saskowski, senior and junior counselors, respectively.

Miss Mildred Martin, counselor to the sophomores, helps the entering 10B-3's choose suitable subjects. Freshman Counselor Mrs. Luzia Greenwalt plans Freshman Honor day programs and advises ninth graders. She and Miss Martin are responsible for the advisement programs of the underclassmen.

Doctor, Nurse

When Doctor Alfred Goodsitt or Nurse Norma Gelhausen call you to the doctor's room to give you a check-up, they see that your weight, ears, eyes, nose, throat, teeth, and blood pressure are up to par.

Every Thursday twenty-five freshmen are called in for examination. Others report upon requests of teachers. If physical defects are discovered, the student is advised to consult his family physician.

Dr. Alfred Goodsitt, Mrs. Norma Gelhausen

Office Staff

Typing, checking attendance, recording grades on scholarship cards, and receiving visitors are some of the many duties performed by our clerks. The buzz of telephones and the stream of inquiring students do not detract from the harmony of the office. Working in close connection with this force, Miss Jane Whitney, welfare officer, investigates habitual absentees and reports serious cases.

These administrative aids aim to make our school community law-abiding and progressive.

Mrs. Stollenwerk, Miss Roesselet, Miss Whitney

"When you want something done, ask a busy person." This is true of the office monitors whose job is to answer requests of bewildered students and teachers. Other duties of these seniors are collecting attendance slips, filing registration and scholarship cards, and answering the telephone. These tasks not only give them valuable job experience but add to the efficiency of the office. Working with their superiors as well as with students, they learn to co-operate.

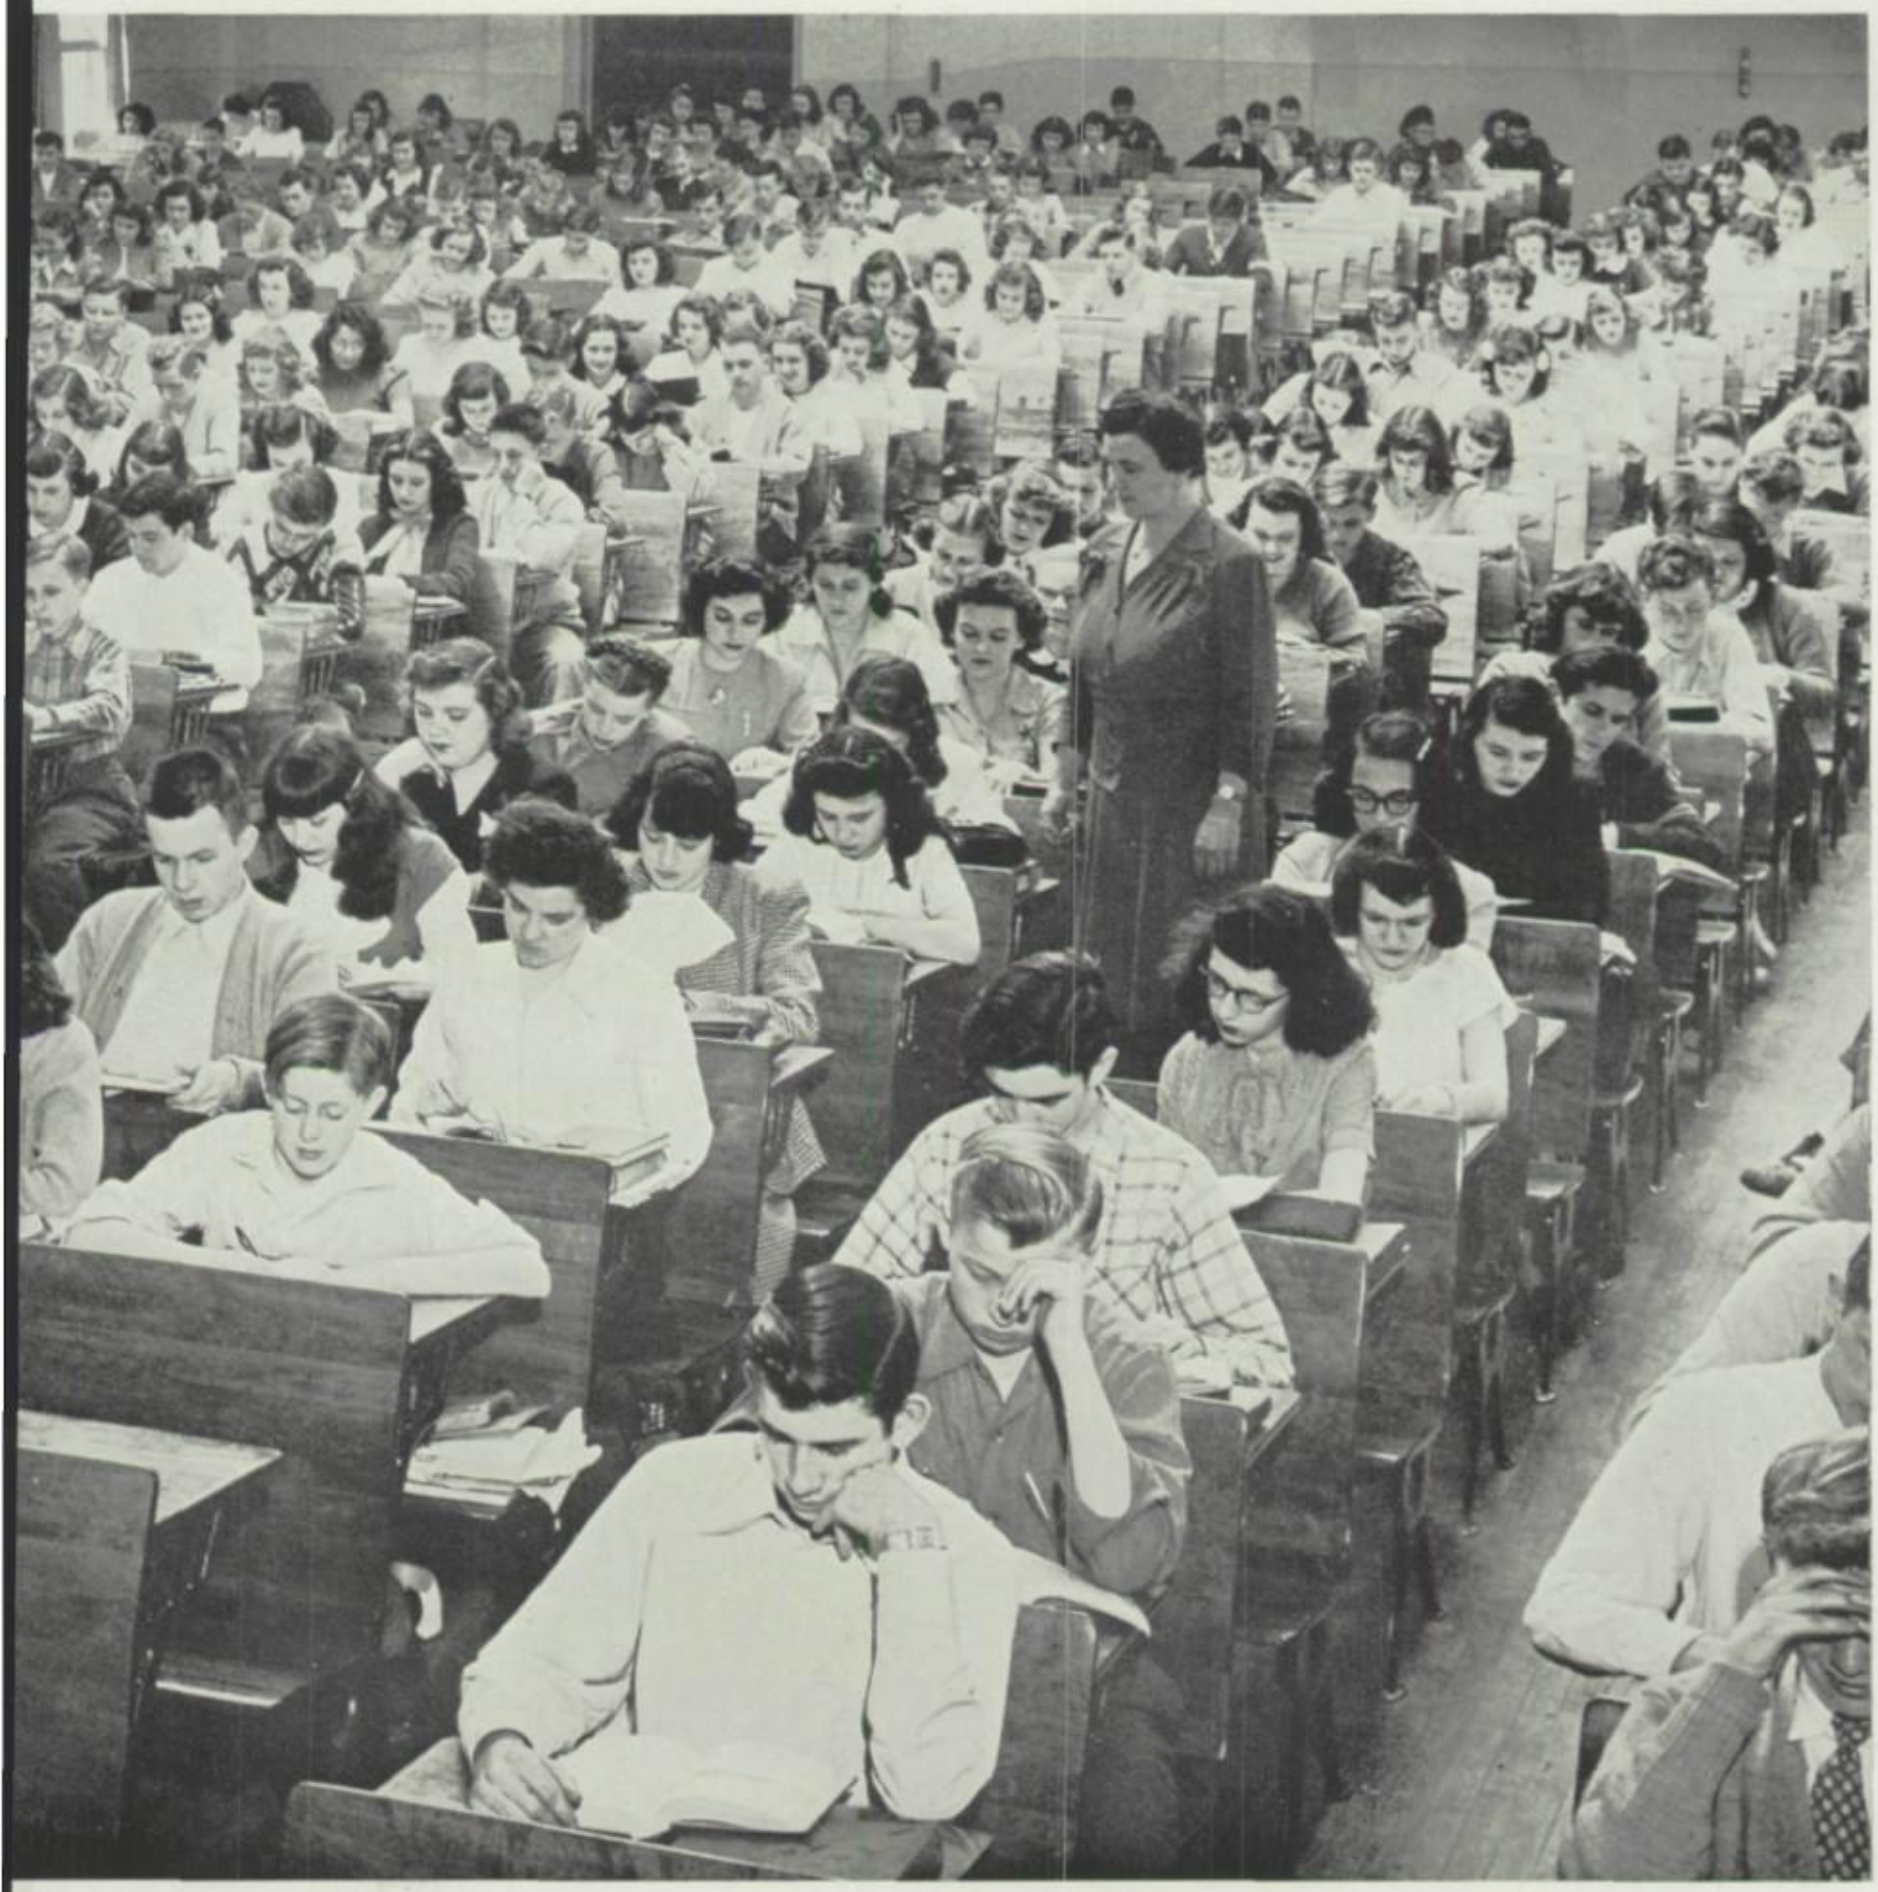
MRS. HAZEL HINRICHS

"Mrs. Hinrichs lived a life of service, a beautiful life. Many here undoubtedly were in her classes. Several of you were in The Cardinal weekly office under her guidance. She was known by a large number of students and by most of the faculty, and all will bear me out in saying her life was a benediction, one full of service with a willingness to do for others. God doeth all things well. He has called Mrs. Hinrichs to her reward."

Tribute to Mrs. Hinrichs
Principal Ray D. Crout

Teachers



"Through an accumulated wealth of knowledge transmuted by imagination, the teacher becomes the bounteous being of the community. Her reserve power comes forth without effort as the fall of leaves in great autumn days, falling with the sun power in them on their way to make a coal bed, which in time will reproduce through its coal power, a sun power to make the world go round."

Dear Hilda;

Remember where we met. In Mr. Nelson's Science class, you reminded me of a pink-cheeked little girl. Well I've had you on my hands ever since. You've practically driven me crazy with your geometry singing. We have but one more year together but who knows we might still go on to school together. As I have always said you will be on the first and I on the fourth or vice versa. Then all I think I shall be able to stand you - I have for so long and still am living. I like you very much and will enjoy it very much if we could go on to school together.

Yours
Bernie alias Diana

Dear Hilda,
A swell girl in my Algebra class at South and I wish you all the luck
in the world.
Love Audrey.

Lots of luck to a real swell gal.
Keep up the good work.
Evelyn
P.S. Don't blame me for always laughing

To a swell girl
Lots of luck and happiness in the future
Ruth Aldrich

Dear Hilda,
Good luck to the always to one of the swellest girls I know
(Except me, of course.)
Remember I'm just a
Senior and I'm
Short, cute, always
Late, Curly-haired
Lovable Evelyn (I'd like to be Tall, Dignified, Serious, mature)

Hilda are you still taking math?
Good luck to a peach of a girl
Dorothy.

To a sweet girl I've enjoyed having as a friend — Good luck & Best wishes. I'll miss you! Sally Wilebski
